The orphanage Zanjireh Mehr-e-Mandegar is located in Tehran, Iran

Abused child

Hamburg , 11.06.2023, 10:19 Time

USPA NEWS - A seven to eight-year-old child starts experiencing bedwetting, which marks the beginning of the ordeal. According to one of the former coaches of the charity organization "Zanjireh Mehr-e-Mandegar," in collaboration with the head and another coach, the child's hands and feet are burned with an iron. Subsequently, the child is imprisoned in an old bathroom infested with cockroaches, where their food is limited to dry bread and water. This process continues for a week.

One of the former coaches of the charity organization "Zanjireh Mehr-e-Mandegar" reports this incident, and its validity, as well as the burning of the child's hands and feet, is confirmed through several other sources. There are also images that validate the authenticity of the story.

This is just one of the horrifying stories from this center, and sources say that for months, there have been 24 neglected and abused children residing in this facility.

The accounts of these abuses and their validity are confirmed.

Do the memoirs of prisoners narrate the most terrifying prisons or the treatment of children in a charity organization?

Do the memoirs of prisoners narrate the most terrifying prisons or the treatment of children in a charity organization?" These actions indicate the madness of the instructors in this institution and how they treat orphaned children. Yet, the authoritarian government of Iran has not made any statements, and even the instructors of this organization have not been arrested, despite these reports being confirmed by official Iranian networks

The Islamic Republic of Iran government is truly incompetent, and this kind of violence, especially towards orphaned children, should not be overlooked. It needs to be strongly addressed, and as the majority of people know, today is Kian Piralak birthday. If the anti-insurgency forces of the Islamic Republic did not open fire during the protests a few months ago in Iran under the slogans of women, life, freedom, Kian Piralak would have turned 10 today.

In 2023, the Islamic Republic of Iran government easily subjects children to harassment and abuse. Anti-insurgency forces shoot at children, or they mistreat them in places called orphanages

Unfortunately, many countries have remained silent regarding these acts of violence by the Iranian government

Kian Piralak Killed During Of Protest Mahsa Amini In Iran By Directly Shout of Islamic Republic Of Iran Security Forces And Many Other Children's Have Killed

By names , Nika Shahkarami , Sarina Esmaeil Zade , Mona Naghib , And Many More As Amnesty Have Told Us Their Names

Please Do Not Forget What Happened In Iran Children's School As Well.

After brutally suppressing protesters and the murder of Mahsa Amini, the Islamic Republic of Iran government has embarked on a new crime: the deliberate poisoning of many children with chemical gases. Scientists are still investigating the types of gases used in these government attacks that caused severe harm to schoolgirls. One of the identified gases is highly dangerous and toxic. However, large governments continue to remain silent in the face of these crimes committed by the Islamic Republic of Iran. They are still willing to negotiate with the bloodthirsty dictatorship of Ali Khamenei.
